

LECTURER: PAINTING

Michaelis School of Fine Art Faculty of Humanities

The Michaelis School of Fine Art is internationally recognised as one of Africa's foremost institutions for the study of Fine Art. The School seeks to appoint a new member of staff who would be able to teach and research in studio work practice as a specialist in painting and drawing.

The successful candidate will be responsible for teaching undergraduate courses and supervising postgraduate research. They will be required to fully participate in the administration related to general school functions and convening of courses. The successful applicant should have a Masters degree with a specialism in Fine Art Praxis (MFA). The applicant should have proven research capacity and an exhibition record attesting to their creative contribution to contemporary art. The ability to teach painting and foundational drawing projects is essential. Information on the teaching and research activities of the School may be found on the website: www.michaelis.uct.ac.za

Requirements

- Masters degree, with emphasis on creative practice.
- Suitable experience teaching at a higher education institution.
- Experience with traditional painting techniques in oil and acrylics.
- Knowledge of historical painting processes.

The successful applicant will be allocated a studio and be given the opportunity to apply for funding for their own creative work.

The annual remuneration package, including benefits, is R853 709.
